FRED LXV. A member of the Fred series of the Crimson Guard, Fred LXV shared the same face of every other Fred through plastic surgery. Fred was stationed in Broca Beach when his wife informed him their son was on drugs and had bought it right in the local convenience store. Fred retrieved his rifle and angrily confronted the head of the drug operation, Headman, and was swiftly shot and killed by the Headman's Headhunters. Headman was confident that he could continue his business since Cobra would never call in law enforcement to their secretly controlled town. Fred's wife was killed when she tried to avenge her husband's death. Their son, Fred Junior, did not seek his own revenge, but instead went to the next town over and tried to trade his mother's rifle for more drugs.
