Thursday, 28 February 2008

HAMMERHEAD. Cobra's submersible sea tank. The Hammerhead was primarily designed to operate in the shallow coastal waters, sand, and swamp areas along the coast of Cobra Island. The vehicle included many components that could detach and operate as separate, smaller vehicles, including its command module, two sea net attack subs and two sea sled scout crafts. Armaments included two twin laser cannons and an elevating bank of missiles. The smaller vehicles were armed with missiles or torpedos, as well. In addition to its defense of Cobra Island, the Hammerhead also saw action in Trucial Abysmia.
