ACTION MAN. The code name used by the highly skilled "international super agent" based primarily in Europe. He worked with the G.I. Joe team in the past, and as a reserve member of the team, his activities during the conflict known as World War III remain highly classified. One of many Joes listed on World War III member assignment map first seen in AE #28. Action Man was the original name for the 1960s action figure that was the UK equivalent of the original G.I. Joe. The property has had many incarnations over the years, but this figure appears to be based on the star of the Action Man animated series released in 2000.
