Our humble group of Fanboys was first founded twenty years ago, when a number of fans got together in an e-mail mailing list about JMM's Star Wars Chronology website began discussing more than the site! We eventually started this website to collect articles and essays from members, promote members' professional endeavors, and more. While the site has slowed down (besides the Star Wars Multiverse article), we are still here. In celebration, The SWFA Art Gallery is live again including it's biggest feature, the super-deformed cartoon-like characters as featured in our old and new logos.
